PROGRAM

Legislative and Case Law Update

Robert C. Shearman, Esq. and Vicki L. Sproat, Esq.

Bob and Vicki will provide an interactive update on notable court decisions, including cases addressing contentious employment policies and other noteworthy employee claims. Attendees will learn practical advice and tips for businesses to reach their goal of a compliant workplace under current laws and regulations.

The ADA – 25 Years Later

John F. Potanovic, Esq.

On March 5, 1992, Henderson Franklin sponsored its first "Employer's Update," where John spoke to a small gathering at the Royal Palm Yacht Club about a brand new law – the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). Much has evolved since then. 25 years later, the Henderson Franklin seminar is called "HR Law and Solutions" and has 300+ attendees each year; the Royal Palm Yacht Club is a Pinchers Crab Shack; and John no longer has need for a blow-dryer. In this session, John will discuss the more difficult issues confronting employers attempting to steer clear of ADA problems, and he will share best practices to assist in dealing with these challenging issues.

How to Avoid Costly Litigation in Workers' Compensation

David Roos, Esq., Michael McCabe, Esq. and Tania Ogden, Esq.

Henderson Franklin's Workers' Compensation Defense Attorneys will share strategic tips employers can implement to help avoid costly litigation. They will discuss best practices with regard to policies that should be in place before the injury, how to manage and set employees' expectations when an injury occurs, employer do's and don'ts, as well as return to work policies. David, Michael and Tania will also share the importance of communication between the employer, insurance company and defense attorney(s) to try and achieve the best outcome possible for the employer.

New Year, New Administration: What Does 2017 Hold for Employers?

Panel discussion moderated by Suzanne M. Boy, Esq., with panelists Robert E. Weisberg, Esq., Regional Attorney for U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (Miami) and Benjamin Yormak, Esq.

There is little doubt in employer and HR circles that the ever-evolving nature of employment law can make management and prevention of problems difficult for even the most experienced leaders.

In this session, attendees will have a unique look into what experts from all sides of the employment law world believe is on deck for 2017, including: potential changes to minimum wage and overtime laws, paid sick/maternity leave; the status of sexual orientation/gender identity protections; and, the ever-changing NLRB rulings.
